TIPS FOR PARENTS

Dear Parents

Tantrums are a natural part of childhood, reflecting a child's struggle to express strong emotions. As parents, understanding how to respond can transform these challenging moments into valuable learning experiences. Here are six practical strategies to help you navigate tantrums effectively:

1. Stay Calm: When your child is having a tantrum, take a deep breath and maintain a calm demeanor. Your tranquility can help soothe their emotions and create a safe environment.

2. Acknowledge Their Feelings: Use phrases like, "I can see you're really upset," to validate your child's emotions. This shows them that it's okay to feel how they feel.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

3. Provide Choices: Offer simple choices to give your child a sense of control, such as, “Do you want to wear the red shirt or the blue shirt today?” This can reduce frustration and empower them.

4. Redirect Attention: If your child is upset about something, gently redirect their focus to a different activity, like saying, “How about we read your favorite story together?”

5. Encourage Expression: After the tantrum, encourage your child to express their feelings through art or play. You can say, “Let’s draw what made you feel upset,” helping them articulate their emotions better.

6. Establish Routines: Create consistent daily routines for activities like meals and bedtime. Routines provide predictability, which can reduce anxiety and help your child feel more secure.

By incorporating these strategies, you can create a supportive environment that fosters emotional growth and understanding.

IMPORTANT

- Always carry your school parent ID card whenever you visit the school.
- Notify the teacher about any changes in address or phone number.
- Use small sentences in English with your child at home.
- Avoid outside food and prefer home-cooked meals for your children during the monsoon season.
- You can send your ward in civil dress on his/her birthday.
- Kindly do not pack your child's tiffin in silver foil.
- Go through the almanac and BCM Arya app daily.
